SLIGHTLY DAMAGED
ON ITS FIRST TRIP

Nose of the "Hindenburg"
Lifted by Wind; Rudder
Drags On Ground

NO ONE IS HURT

Passengers, Including High
Nazi Officials, Return
To Friedrichshafen

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Mar. 26—The world's largest airship, the giant "Hindenburg," was slightly damaged today as she was leaving Friedrichshafen on her first real trip, a scheduled election tour of the nation.

As she started out on her first flight other than test flights, the "Hindenburg" was caught by a gust of wind, which suddenly lifted her nose. With this movement the rudder was bumping on the ground.

No one was hurt, but the big airship was forced to land near her hangar, and her passengers, including several high Nazi officials, had to be brought back to Friedrichshafen by motor car. Three hours later the big ship was brought back to Friedrichshafen.

The mishap was not discussed with the German press.

Shooting Blamed On Argument At Farm

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 26—An ill feeling that is said to have arisen over a pending civil court action, resulted in a shooting scrap on the Warminster Farms Dairy this week, according to the official docket records of Justice of the Peace W. Carlisle Hobensack, Doylestown.

Richard Wells, 37, a farm hand for a tenant farmer on the Warminster Farms Dairy, was shot three times, through the leg and arm. He was treated at the Abington Memorial Hospital shortly after the shooting and then taken back to his home in Warminster township.

John L. Vernet, 38, general manager of the Warminster Farms Dairy, has been arrested by State Police on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill and aggravated assault and battery. He was released under $1000 bail by Justice Hobensack, Doylestown, to appear at a hearing when summoned after Wells has recovered sufficiently to be in attendance.

The shooting took place last Monday afternoon around the barns on the Warminster Farms Dairy. It is alleged that Wells went to Vernet, the farm manager, and accused him of certain things regarding a pending civil court action. Police, who talked to Wells in the hospital, say that he admitted that he was wrong and "probably should have been shot" because he knocked Vernet down eight or ten times with his fist.

After Vernet had been knocked down by Wells the former pulled out a 25-caliber revolver and started to fire at Wells after chasing around the dairy barns for a time.

Wells told friends that he did not want to have anyone prosecuted in the case, but after the shooting had been reported, State Police secured a warrant and arrested Vernet.

Woman Burned In Explosion

Philadelphia, Mar. 26—Exploding with a force that aroused scores of residents, an incendiary bomb today set fire to the home of Joseph Zimmerman, 57, an employee of a farm implement manufacturing company, where a strike has been in progress for several weeks.

Miss Marie Zimmerman, 29, a daughter of Zimmerman, was burned about the hands and arms, while attempting to put the fire out by smothering it with rugs, before firemen arrived.

Zimmerman was one of a number of workers who refused to join the walk-out.

Nine Seamen Drowned

London, Mar. 26—Nine seamen were drowned today when a French steamer, Boree, capsized and plunged to the bottom of the North Sea, 24 miles northeast of Cromer. The English naval boats speeded to the rescue in time to save 13. The Boree was a vessel belonging to the Societe Navale Caennaise.

FLOOD DAMAGED 125
HOMES AT YARDLEY

Survey Completed by Local Relief Committee Shows
Big Loss

RELIEF WORK GOES ON

YARDLEY, Mar. 26—A survey by the local relief committee to obtain a check on the disaster wrought by the flooding of the Delaware River last week has been completed and shows that 125 houses were under water in the flooded districts with 11 streets completely covered by the raging torrents, with foundations damaged at the homes of Miss Dorothy Hayes, J. Phillip Larson, Raymond Sands, LeRoy Hambricht, George Hoke, and a number of porches, steps, etc., taken away by the currents. A complete loss of furniture, clothing, etc., was suffered by Mrs. George Hoke, and LeRoy Hambricht, while a number of families lost a large portion of their possessions, with damage to their household goods caused by ten to twenty inches of water which left its mark.

Learning of the plight of Yardley, a number of neighboring firemen communicated with Chief Louis C. Leedom, of Yardley Fire Company No. 1, offering their assistance in the removal of water from homes. A group of men with their pumps, from Langhorne, Halmerville, Newtown, Croydon, Cornwells, Trevoise, assisted the two Yardley pumpers with the cleaning of water from cellars, and assisted with the starting of fires to dry out the homes.

With the shutting off of the water supply in the Borough of Yardley, Trevoise firemen filled a 1,000-gallon tank with pure spring water, and went from door to door in Yardley, filling pitchers, kettles, etc., to assist the residents in the water famine.

The local board of health is in charge of the purification of cellars, and is supplying lime for this purpose. This work is under the direction of Dr. R. Jackson Horwell, president of the board. Four first-aid workers have been sent into the community by the W. P. A., to render aid to any injured W. P. A. workers who are engaged in reconstruction work in this community. About 150 men are engaged in this work, cleaning houses of silt, filling in washed away streets, laying drains, removing water from cellars, and in general improving the community to prevent spread of after flood diseases.

CROYDON

Mrs. Margaret Bowyer has returned to her daughter's home after a long stay in Harrisburg.

On Saturday night, mothers of the Croydon Girl Scout Troop, No. 2, will have charge of the bingo and card party. One-half of the proceeds will be given the Red Cross.

Mrs. William Wilkie and several friends motored to Glenolden on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bartholoma, Mrs. C. Friday, Mrs. L. Morgan and Mrs. C. Sharg motored to Philadelphia on Monday to attend a social function.

MORRISVILLE PUMPERS SERIOUSLY DAMAGED

Repairs to One Apparatus
Will Cost More Than $600

ORDER NEW PUMPER

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 26—Two pumping engines of the local fire department, one owned by Union Company and the other by Capitol View Company, were damaged by gravel setting into the rotaries while pumping out cellars flooded by the recent high water.

The Union engine is now out of service because of serious damage estimated at between $600 and $800. The Capitol View pumper has been repaired. Damage to that machine was slight.

A new pumping engine has been ordered for the Union Company, and as soon as this arrives it will be installed and the old engine returned to the factory for repairs.

The Capitol View Company had planned to send its pumper away to have a booster engine added to the machine, but because the Union machine is out of service this change will be delayed until the Union machine is repaired.

Drama of Man's Betrayal
Is Presented in Film Here

Snatched from the shadow of the noose, he was sent to an island hell to suffer an agony worse than death! Telling the true story of the most tragic figure in American history, 20th Century's "The Prisoner of Shark Island" comes tonight and Friday to the Grand Theatre, starring Warner Baxter with Gloria Stuart and a supporting cast of over one thousand. Dipping into the hectic days following the close of the Civil War, the picture depicts the assassination of Lincoln and the flight of his assassin to the country home of Baxter, a doctor.

For the unintentional crime of setting the broken leg of a man about whom he knew nothing, Baxter is arrested, and sentenced to life imprisonment at the dreaded Federal prison on the Dry Tortugas.

The picture reveals the physical and spiritual agonies of this unjustly sentenced man, his desperate attempt at escape.

Finally a devastating epidemic of yellow fever brings a turn in his fortunes. With the prison doctor, himself, ill of the fever, Baxter is temporarily restored to his former position as he fights to stem the tide of death. A happy climax brings the close of this profound saga of courage and strength.

BILGERS HAVE DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. George Bilger, Halmerville, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter in Dr. J. Fred Wagner's hospital, last evening. The little girl will be named Margaret Ruth.

POLITICAL TAXING

By Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts

Embarrassing situations have arisen since President Roosevelt notified Congress on January 3rd that he could see no need for new taxes at this Session.

That statement, it will be recalled, brought loud applause from the Democratic side of the House. Two months later we find the Majority groping desperately for additional funds to cover their extravagant expenditures.

Such terms as "cushion reserves," "windfall taxes," "floating accumulation taxes," and "equalized processing taxes" carry no real meaning in tax parlance. They are purely political camouflage and window dressing, calculated to conceal an economically indigestible tax measure on the eve of a presidential campaign.

In 1935, the New Deal tax program was written word by word in the Treasury and sent to the Ways and Means Committee for the rubber-stamp approval of Congress. Now, with a presidential election in the offing, the labor of framing the 1936 tax bill is passed adroitly back to Congress.

The problem before the Majority in Congress is to raise new taxes without imposing new levies on any considerable group of voters.

The Democratic Party must choose.

If they intend to pass a tax bill at this Session, they must contrive to lay the burden in such a way that it will not embarrass either themselves or the presidential candidate in the White House.

WOMEN GATHER NEARLY TWO HOURS IN ADVANCE OF OPENING HOUR FOR COOKING
SCHOOL; KNIT AS THEY AWAIT PROGRAM

One Drops Ball of Yarn from Balcony, Crowd Enjoys Efforts to Retrieve It—Mrs. Joseph Smith, Hostess, Introduces Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree—Home-Makers
Are Told to Give "Flare" to Cooking

Last evening's crowds at the Cooking School conducted by Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree for The Bristol Courier seemed to include every housekeeper in Bristol. But from somewhere more and more interested, enthusiastic women poured into Bristol M. E. Church lecture room to attend the second session.

Long before the scheduled opening hour, the best seats were taken and the rest of the hall filling rapidly. The school got under way promptly, and from its very beginning to the last minute of the program, provided entertainment, valuable information, a liberal education in what is new in cookery and serving.

The women gathered at the doors as early as 6.15, eager to enter and get the choice seats. Some took their knitting and other fancy work; and the most amusing incident of the evening was when one of the fair home-makers, seated in the balcony, dropped her ball of yarn to the main floor. Another house-wife on the main floor quickly retrieved it, but proved a poor shot, and time after time was able to throw the ball only half-way to the knitter in the balcony. After continuous effort, strength seemed to be gained, with the jolly laughter of the gathering probably aiding, and the knitter had her yarn back in her bag.

Mrs. Joseph Smith, 320 Radcliffe street, chairman of the Bristol Branch of the American Red Cross, was hostess of the evening, being presented to the assembly by a representative of The Bristol Courier, Mrs. Smith, in a most delightful introduction, presented to the audience the lecturer-demonstrator, Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree, who had won a place in the hearts of the women on the first night of the school. The lecturer-demonstrator presented to the hostess a bouquet of sweet peas.

A sweet potato pie was the first recipe given last evening, and the results shown 40 minutes later pleased every woman present. After making some rice cutlets and sauteing them until a golden brown, Mrs. Crabtree by means of a mirror showed the result to the more than 500 women. When she admonished "Put your mind on your cooking, and lift it out of the ordinary. Give a flare to it" and with this instruction she showed the improvement in appearance of the rice cutlets by placing a spoonful of bright jelly on the top of each cutlet.

The "students" in the cooking class had obeyed instructions of the "teacher," and taken pencils for the session. Notebooks were brought into play in some instances, while other women used the margin of their programs.

Some of the questions put to the lecturer last evening regarded peculiar results in French frying, others showed that some women had difficulty with certain types of pies or cakes. In most clear terms Mrs. Crabtree gave helpful information and suggestions, thus making the session one of real aid to the home-makers.

The stage kitchen was busy from the time the session opened until it closed. Mrs. Crabtree mixed and beat, stirred and garnished, opened the refrigerator to put salads and desserts to chill, and attended her oven and the other cookery on the range, while she talked and displayed utensils.

CAPTAIN TIM HEALEY TO SPEAK AT COUNTY DINNER

Will Address Service Club
Members at George School
On April 3rd

WOMEN ARE INVITED

Captain Tim Healey, a member of the British Secret Service during the World War, and one of the best known radio commentators of spy stories on the air today, will pay a visit to Bucks county on Friday, April 3rd, when he will address an all-Bucks county service club dinner meeting at George School at 7 p. m.

Several years ago Lowell Thomas was brought to George School for an inter-club dinner meeting and it proved to be one of the most successful affairs in the history of Bucks county service clubs.

The meeting of April 3rd will be just as interesting due to the fact that the committee was able to secure Captain Tim Healey, whose broadcasts are heard three times a week over a national radio network. His stories are from actual experiences and are taken from the official files of the intelligence services of both sides in the World War.

Women are invited to attend the meeting. Music will be furnished by the Bucks county scholastic trumpet champions, an orchestra and group singing. The purpose of the meeting is to enlarge fellowship and acquaintanceship among the service club members of Bucks county.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, a past president of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, will be the presiding officer. George School has offered its excellent facilities at no expense.

According to Charles Boehm, a member of the Rotary Club of Morrisville, who has been directly responsible for organizing the county-wide dinner meeting, five clubs have already set aside the all-county meeting as their ladies' night.

Nine service clubs have sent in advance reservations. Perkiss Rotary has reserved 49 covers and Morrisville Rotary 60 covers. Yardley and Langhorne Lions Clubs expect large delegations as do the Doylestown and Bristol Rotary and Doylestown Kiwanis. Reservations must be made by April 1.

Firemen Stop Blaze
In Congested District

Bristol Consolidated Fire Department by quick action yesterday afternoon stopped a fire in a highly congested district in the rear of 218 Market street.

Sparks from burning paper in the yard of a neighbor are said to have ignited an old barn used as a garage by Oliver Ringgold, 218 Market street. The blaze, according to Mrs. Ringgold, was discovered by her daughter and Raymond Opdyke turned in an alarm. Smoke was pouring from the building when the firemen arrived but hose lines were laid and the blaze knocked down at once.

The car of Mr. Ringgold was removed before it was damaged.

FORMER BRISTOL WOMAN TELLS OF FLOOD RAVAGES

Mrs. Barclay Douglass Motored
Through Wheeling, Pittsburgh, Everitt

HIGHWAYS DEPLORABLE

Mrs. Barclay Douglass, Pittsburgh, the former Miss Sara Milnor, came through much of the flood devastated area of Pennsylvania, enroute from Cincinnati, Ohio, to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milnor, 14th Road, this week.

The sad sight of homes crushed like match-boxes, of outbuildings, garages, and service stations crumbled, and carried to distant spots; and of water-soaked household goods everywhere, is told by Mrs. Douglass, who motored from the Ohio city with a woman friend.

In Wheeling, W. Va., and its suburbs, many houses are caved in, trees uprooted, and the highways and streets are raised in sections, and in countless instances have holes to hamper traffic. Telephone poles and wires are down, states Mrs. Douglass, and on one bridge crossed only a certain number of vehicles were permitted thereon at one time. The bridge is cabled fast at both ends, in order to insure safety.

"We saw people at scores of households placing goods on porch railings and lines to dry. Windows were broken, and at one gasoline station only the front wall remained up-right, and that portion was crooked. Practically the entire building seemed to have caved in."

In the Pittsburgh area traffic presents a real problem. "We were detoured frequently, and no one is permitted to enter downtown Pittsburgh. Traffic is greatly congested in the parts of the city that are open, and three-lane traffic is maintained in most of the places, with cars moving inch by inch. It took us three hours to get into Pittsburgh and through to the section where my home is located." The Douglass home, situated on a hill, was not reached by the water, but like other households in that area there is still no light or water service. The Ohio river was still very high where she came over it on Monday, states Mrs. Douglass. Monday night was passed by the two at the Douglass home in Pittsburgh, and on Tuesday morning they left for Bristol.

At Everitt route 30 was described as being in a deplorable condition, with caution signs being numerous. Gravel has been used in an effort to fill in some holes, the water in that section, last week, covering the highway. Guard rails are gone entirely near Everitt, and caution has to be used on the curves, states the former Bristolian.

"We passed some Red Cross trucks which were loaded with supplies, and enroute to the flood sufferers," continued the Pittsburgh woman. "And everywhere were bungalows upturned, chicken coops carried away; and hundreds of linemen and road workers are to be seen busily engaged."

With numerous detours nearly 400 miles were covered for the trip from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, which ordinarily is but 293 miles.

P. R. R. OPPOSES
REMOVAL OF PIERS
IN THE DELAWARE

Presence of Piers Said to Make Navigation Difficult and Dangerous

HEARING IN THE CASE

Removal Sought; Said to Have Been Responsible For Accumulation of Ice

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 26—Opened shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning with Colonel John C. Lee, United States District Engineer, presiding, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company opposed removal of the P. R. R. bridge piers which are in the Delaware river about two miles below the head of navigation at Trenton, N. J.

Lee said, according to the records, "the presence of the piers has made navigation difficult and dangerous, particularly for large vessels now using the terminal at Trenton."

The piers are of a partly completed bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company across the Delaware river and they were reported as being responsible for the accumulation of ice during the past winter and as unduly obstructing navigation.

Yesterday a hearing was held in the United States Custom Court, Room 300, Third Floor, Customhouse, Second and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, to determine whether, pursuant to provisions of existing law, an order should be issued by the Secretary of War to require the removal, within a period of six months, of the two piers immediately outside the channel to a depth of 30 feet below mean low water and of the two shoreward piers to the natural bottom of the waterway.

The hearing was attended by railroad officials, and representatives from Philadelphia and other communities along the river. As the hearing got underway, Avery Ward, counsel for the P. R. R. Co., presented a letter from A. C. Watson, chief engineer of the New York route of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Ward stated, that despite the lapse of years, the bridge has never been abandoned, but was delayed by developments.

Watson's letter continued to explain that the company is definitely opposed to removal of the piers. Watson said that the evidence presents no proof that the piers caused the ice jams, or interfered with navigation.

M. L. Kyle, consulting engineer of the P. R. R., explained more fully the material revealed in Watson's letter. Kyle went on to explain that the piers were erected in 1915 at a cost of $400,000 and that the bridge was planned as a cut-off of the P. R. R. and the Pennsylvania and Newark railroad. This would enable the detour of heavy freight around Trenton. Construction of the bridge was approved by an Act of Congress in 1906, and the act expired in 1911, but in 1912 Congress passed a second act for the construction of the bridge, and extended it until August, 1937. In 1932 they decided to remove the central pier, and now five piers are left.

Careful investigation has disclosed that shoals in the Delaware above the piers are the real cause of the jams against which Trenton and marine and shipping interests have entered complaints. M. L. Kyle, construction engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Trenton, declared. Among other witnesses supporting this view was Arthur Ashmore, Trenton fisherman, who asserted serious jams had occurred at this particular point in the river even before the piers were built.

An opinion that the piers are only a "secondary" cause of jams was expressed by Mayor Thomas B. Stockham of Morrisville who added that his community would oppose any movement to move the bridge farther north of its present site.

Sand bars outside the channel from the end of Biles Island to the present Pennsylvania railroad bridge cause the jams, Mayor Stockham explained. Ice is caught on the bars at low tide, he said, becomes "cemented" there and thereby blocks other floes floating downstream.

The Morrisville executive, however, asserted that the railroad should revise its bridge plans because the channel now has been deepened. "If the Pennsylvania proposes to utilize the right of way," he declared, "the problem should be studied with relation to the new channel."

"The City of Trenton must continue to face the danger of floods," a brief filed by City Manager Paul Morton declared, if the piers are not removed. The brief asserted that careful observation has shown the ice collects above but not below the piers, the obstruction causes the ice to become a virtual dam extending to the river bed, the jam hastens erosion of the Pennsylvania shore and the floods of January, 1926, and the winter of 1934 might not have occurred had the piers allowed the ice to flow seaward.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Educated native-born Americans are not surprised when applicants for naturalization answer "the people" when asked who elects the President of the United States, for most of them would make the same technical mistake, forgetting for the moment that it is really the electoral college that elects the president.

One cannot agree with a court which refuses citizenship to an alien for so technical a mistake, for the electoral college merely carries out the mandate of the people. Moreover, it has always been the purpose of every Americanization agency to instill in the mind of the new citizens the idea that this is a democratic country in which the people are sovereign in every instance. It seems that the would-be citizen has a fair conception of American ideals and traditions when he answers "the people."

The electoral college was the first piece of constitutional machinery which failed to function as the founding fathers intended. Yet it has survived.

It has become the distinctive characteristic of the American system that the president bears the mandate of the people in a national sense true of no other person holding elective office in the United States. His mandate is as broad as the union. From this fact he derives the moral authority which makes him the national leader in a time of national emergency or crisis. He represents the whole people as no other person and no other institution of our political system can.

SHORTER AGAIN

Business is not the only thing that is picking up. After picking up trains all winter milady threatens to run around all summer in shorts and short skirts. The designers are picking up skirt hems and leaving them up.

This time it cannot be said that the girls and modistes are out to give the boys a treat. Shorts and high-visibility skirts will provide no new thrills after two or three seasons of the current bathing suit modes. Compared with the bathing suits of last season, which no doubt will seem quite decorous and modest compared with the 1936 styles, the new shorts cover almost as much territory as overalls.

Shed a tear now for the textile industry if brevity again becomes the keynote of feminine styles. The floor-sweeper model skirt requires more than twice as much material as the knee-scraper. Which explains the growing furrows on the forehead of the silk and cotton industries. What will the NRA do about it? What can it do about it? Dame Fashion is not to be goaded. Although it means taking money out of their own pockets the girls who weave cotton and silk into cloth will be among the first to air their calves.

The citizens of Alberta didn't get the $25-a-month allowance, but the government is thinking of them. It has enacted a 2 per cent sales tax.

London critics can't swallow a first mate who talks American in "Mutiny on the Bounty." It should be easy, after a Voltaire who talks like George Arliss.

And after the inventor settles in the wilderness, the chances are his first caller is a house-to-house agent for an improved mousetrap.

Reveals Important Source of Vital Nutrition Elements

Science Points Out Food Sources Other Than Those in Milk and Leafy Vegetables

IT is said that the ordinary diet of Americans is probably more deficient in Calcium than in any other chemical element. Medical authorities attribute deficiencies in growth and even many diseases to inadequacy in the supply of Calcium.

Another important cause of ill health is lack of a proper proportion of Phosphates in our diet. As is well known, in the process of milling flour a considerable portion of these health-giving Phosphates is eliminated, thus depriving the flour of much of its food value.

Nature requires the constant presence in the system of these two nutritive elements. They are contained in every tissue, nerve and muscle of the body. Science tells us that with an abundant supply of them in the system good health is promoted and, without that supply, disease is unavoidable.

The richest known sources for obtaining Calcium and Phosphorus are milk and leafy vegetables. However, most people do not find it pleasant to drink a lot of milk. Likewise, there are many who do not care for a lot of vegetables.

Fortunately for them and for all others too, modern science has found that certain mineral salts (Calcium Phosphates) are also excellent sources of these vital elements. A highly recommended means for obtaining these minerals is through the use of baking powder made with calcium phosphate—all phosphate baking powder.

Rumford is known the world over as the all-phosphate baking powder. It is a proven fact that there is as much food phosphate in one Rumford biscuit as there is in one and one-half lamb chops, one and three-quarters hen's eggs, two and one-half average servings of oatmeal and one and one-quarter glassfuls of milk.

In other words, when you bake with Rumford you get not only the advantages of perfect leavening action, but the addition of real nutritive elements to your diet as well. Where there are growing children in the family, this double advantage is especially important. It assures the healthy, normal growth of teeth and bones—the development of sound, sturdy bodies.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills. (Advertisement)

"DAUGHTERS OF VENUS"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXXII

Juliet opened her eyes. Neither she nor Von Guerdon knew how long they had been silent, for thought is time-consuming.

"Feel better?" he asked her, his voice caressing.

"I rested," she said quietly, "but the sound of the sea is dreary, isn't it? And I'm cold."

He went back to the car and brought his light overcoat to put over her.

"Thanks. Do you know you're awfully sweet?"

"I know nothing of the kind," he said stiffly.

"But you are. I don't know another man who would be so nice to me. I feel I could tell you anything and you'd understand."

"I think I would."

"I could tell you about a lover I had years ago." Her voice was dreamy. "But I won't. He's like a half-forgotten dream now. But there's another man I can't get out of my mind. I forget him and he returns, and then I am all confused. He comes creeping into my heart but I am not happy. What am I going to do?"

Von Guerdon's voice was toneless. "O'Hara?"

Yes.

He buried the lighted stub of his cigarette in the sand. "Do you love him?"

"I'm afraid so. Tell me, what can I do?"

"Marry him, of course." His voice cut like a knife.

"Why do you say that?" Von Guerdon really meant it.

"I say it," spoke Von Guerdon, "because you desire it."

Juliet sat up. "Shall we go home?"

"I think so," said Von Guerdon quietly.

As he helped her to her feet their hands met. His grasp was firm and sustaining, but he made no effort to prolong the contact.

All evening there had been an aloofness about him that bespoke complete emotional control. Juliet felt indescribably that he had retreated from her, and in response to some obscure instinct she was reluctant to part with him just yet.

Had anyone told her she was playing cat-and-mouse she would have indignantly—and honestly—denied the accusation. Mentally she was completely honest, but woefully ignorant of the subtle influences that are ever stealing forth from their deep subconscious lairs.

Much civilization had made Juliet Rankin forget that tigers crouched in ambush are seldom visible.

"I'm not a bit sleepy," said Juliet, "but the sea air made me hungry. Like to help me explore the icebox?"

"What a healthy animal you are!" said Von Guerdon unromantically, entering the elevator. "You fall into despair at the ocean, but nothing disturbs your appetite."

Before the sliding door closed, the worried-looking apartment manager hurried across the lobby and overtook Juliet.

"Excuse me, Miss Rankin, please," he said apologetically. "I'm afraid I have taken quite a liberty, but I know you'll understand. Madame Hubert called a little while ago and insisted I let her wait in your apartment instead of the lobby. Of course, I recognized her and, knowing you are with the Institute, I—"

"You mean she's waiting in my apartment?"

"She said you were expecting her and it would be quite all right. Ordinarily of course—but under the circumstances—"

"It's quite all right," Juliet assured the man quietly.

Von Guerdon's expression hardened slightly. He said nothing but he took Juliet's arm as they moved down the corridor toward her door.

A wave of distasteful apprehension spread over Juliet; she felt that something unpleasant was about to happen.

"I can't imagine what she wants at this hour," she said. "There's something wrong—the manager felt it. She practically forced her way into the apartment."

"She's probably worried about O'Hara," responded her companion. "I'm glad I'm with you. The Madame isn't quite herself. I'm afraid her transformation has been mental and emotional as well as physical. We can't always foresee results."

"I'm glad you're along," said Juliet, with a little current of nervousness. "Somehow she gives me the creeps—an old wretch painted up like a young girl."

"Perhaps I had better go in alone," suggested Von Guerdon.

"No, I'm not afraid." Juliet took out her key, and then decided to knock first.

"Come in," a dusty voice called out.

Unlocking the door, Juliet entered. "Hello, anyone here?" she called in a brisk voice from the entrance hallway. There was no reply. Then—

Madame Hubert had stood up to greet them. What was on a table, and her platinum hair clustered in metallic ringlets along her narrow vitrified cheeks. The hair looked as artificial as though it were on a wax doll. From under the thin line of plucked and penciled brows the intense eyes fixed themselves upon Juliet with a glassy malevolence.

"I would have a few words with you, Mademoiselle." The words fell like drops of vitrol.

Juliet did not smile. "So I gather. What is it please?"

The sight of this bizarre creature with her fantastic artificiality, this old woman who had intruded with her bitter sneering leer, irritated Juliet until her nerves suddenly went rasping, her face tingling.

"Where is he?" demanded Madame Hubert.

"I don't know what you mean," replied Juliet coldly.

Von Guerdon, seething and collected, stepped forward.

"I assume, Madame, you are inquiring about O'Hara?" he said with inflexible politeness.

The old woman, with harsh determination, faced him.

"Don't try to cover up for her, Von Guerdon. She has been out with O'Hara tonight."

Juliet stared straight and silently at the antagonistic woman, struggled to keep her temper against the beating radiations of hate that poured from Madame Hubert.

"Quite the contrary," said Von Guerdon. "Miss Rankin and I have spent the evening together and we have neither seen nor heard of O'Hara. I must say, Madame, that your presence here and your attitude are in very bad taste. If you're not careful you'll work yourself into a serious nervous attack with this kind of conduct."

Madame Hubert went a dull red across her forehead and glared back at him.

"This is no concern of yours," she said virulently. "She's making a fool of you to cover up her scheme. She has been after O'Hara since the minute she met him. I've known it all along. O'Hara promised to come to my house tonight but she lured him off."

"You're not only insulting," Juliet told her calmly, "but you are making yourself ridiculous."

"Insulting! Ridiculous, am I?" Madame Hubert cried. "Yes, I was ridiculous when I picked you up in the Ambassador Hotel and gave you a respectable position. This is my reward. Not content with trying to get control of the business I poured my life blood into, you use cunning to come between me and the man who has adored me for years. Because you appeared I was like a queen in O'Hara's eyes! Oh, I know how you have undermined me and ridiculed me secretly. When I was flat on my back you had him all to yourself. You saw his love for me and you tried to murder it!"

She now faced Juliet in a frenzy of rage. Her lips were completely drained of blood and her complexion, showing through the painted veneer, was utterly yellow. All poise, all control and all common sense, were blotted out. Von Guerdon, watching her closely, was aware that she was losing control.

Juliet, with her heart beating rapidly and an indignant heat running through her veins, unwisely allowed herself to answer these absurd insults.

"You have taken a simple set of facts and twisted them out of all reason," she said, her tone bitter. "It's no silliness to argue about, but I most certainly never ridiculed you to O'Hara or anyone else. As for the business, I have contributed far more to it than I've had out of it. Mr. Gottlieb is now in New York negotiating a contract that will bring you more money than you've ever had in your life."

It was Von Guerdon who endeavored to cut all this short. Stepping forward he laid a hand on Madame Hubert's elbow, but she shook it off angrily.

"Look here," he said sharply, "in another minute you'll be hysterical. Miss Rankin has been an asset to your business and I can vouch for her personal integrity. You're making a fool of yourself, Madame, and I'm going to take you home right now."

"I won't go!" shrieked the old woman. "You are a bigger idiot than I thought, Von Guerdon. That's just what she wants. She wants to get rid of you and me, and then have O'Hara come sneaking in and take her place. Oh, I've known her kind before. They can't leave me alone. But she isn't going to get O'Hara!"

A burning sense of humiliation welled through Juliet. Somehow the whole atmosphere of the room had become shameful, and she dreaded even to meet Von Guerdon's eyes.

"Please take her away," she said disgustedly.

A grating sound occurred in the lock of the outside door and beyond it were voices. All words between Juliet and Von Guerdon and Madame Hubert came to a dead stop.

The door opened and Katie Schmidt, bright as gilt, came into the room. Behind her, with his overcoat over his arm and his hat in his hand and a brickish flush on his face, came O'Hara himself.

Juliet could feel the rise and fall of her breast, the sickened beating of her heart. This degrading scene was to begin all over again—a cheap, common quarrel over a man who had the questionable gift of exciting women. Even now he was involved in some degree, with a girl of Katie Schmidt's calibre.

It was too indecent . . .

Katie, looking eagerly at Juliet, failed to notice anyone else in the room in that first instant. Her voice sprang out with a gay tony vibration.

"Look, Miss Juliet—I didn't let him get away tonight at the downstairs door. Come on in, Tom. As she became conscious of Von Guerdon and Madame Hubert, Katie's mouth formed a small, red, surprised circle of lip rouge. "Oh—"

O'Hara's broad-shouldered form advanced into the room and stopped awkwardly. One black lock of hair had fallen across his heated forehead; behind his flush was, somehow, a hang-dog expression. His eyes met no one directly.

"Hello," his voice blurred slightly. "I didn't expect—"

He paused, wedged between surprise and an abashed desire to get away.

It was Von Guerdon who acted swiftly to conduct the scene. One of his hands fell upon his employer's scrawny shoulder.

"Madame Hubert and I are just leaving," he said decisively. "Come along, Madame—O'Hara and I are taking you home. We can talk on the way." He shot a meaningful glance at the minute she met him. I've known it all along. O'Hara promised to come to my house tonight but she lured him off."

Katie's eyes flew wider.

"Hey! What's the rush? Can't you let Mr. O'Hara sit down a minute? We just got here—"

Grab one of her arms, Von Guerdon commanded O'Hara.

Madame Hubert, her brain wincing like a machine with a loose part, became endowed with a twisting agile strength that enabled her, with an unexpected movement, to wrench herself out of Von Guerdon's grasp.

A look on the shoulder of her dress snapped open, disclosing an area of saffron skin. She heard her own breath whistle through the nostrils. A reddish mist clouded her vision.

"Take it easy, Madame," pleaded O'Hara, helplessly.

"It's a conspiracy!" she shouted. "They're all in it. Don't pay any attention to their lies, O'Hara. We'll see who runs the Institute! You're discharged, Von Guerdon. Fired!" She whirled, facing Juliet. "And you too. I am throwing you out of the Institute—bag and baggage."

Von Guerdon's face grew whiter. O'Hara, too, was losing color. He had been drinking but was fast sobering. Katie's countenance froze in amazement; her mouth was still a circle she had forgotten to close.

"Pay no attention to what she's saying," on Guerdon said to the astonished O'Hara. "Help me get her quickly out of here, before she gets any wilder."

Juliet had retreated against a wall, her eyes burning with outraged anger.

"Don't you dare lay a hand on me!" cried Madame Hubert, her voice rising furiously. "I tell you it's a conspiracy. O'Hara. That Rankin woman is trying to break between us! She's trying to break up our love! Von Guerdon's just a tool. She's trying to take you away, and you belong to me! Go ahead and tell her—we've been in love with each other for years. And now, when it's all bursting into full bloom—"

"Good Lord, woman!" O'Hara said in a startled voice. "What are you talking about? I believe you've gone crazy! I never dreamed of being in love with you!"

THE HELP WANTED LINE
Have you ever noticed the long lines of men and women waiting outside of employment agencies . . . or standing patiently in line at some office or mill in answer to a newspaper ad? Have you ever conversed with any of them and inquired of their educational background? If you have you most likely found many saying: "I would like to have been able to continue my studies through college but my parents were unable to send me for financial reasons."
What a pity! Children clamoring for an education but deprived of the privilege because of money scarcity.
Are your children in the same predicament . . . are you unable to further their education? Then read this next paragraph carefully.
The Industrial Life Insurance Company has a policy for just such an emergency . . . $250 endowment plan . . . payable in 10 years cash surrender value after three years with the option of making premium payments by the month or week.
By the use of this policy you can start a fund for that college education NOW. It's surprising how rapidly it will accumulate and you can always add to your fund by increasing your number of policies.

P. R. R. Opposes Removal Of Piers In The Delaware

Entirely new piers are needed because of the seaway channel now dredged, Morton's argument held. Earlier in the meeting Colonel Lee pointed out that a bridge at that point would have to conform to certain specifications for widths and clearance, announced in 1933.

Testimony that Philadelphia ice boats have refused to go above the piers during severe winter months was presented in statements from the South Jersey Port Commission. Officials of the Philadelphia department of wharves, docks and ferries, declared the city ice breakers would not risk trips to free the channel at Trenton because of the danger of being crushed.

Other interests supporting removal of the piers as a menace to navigation included the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Commission; Dichmann, Wright and Pugh, Inc., Philadelphia and Trenton steamship brokers; the Vessel Owners' and Captains' Association, and the Joint Executive Committee for Improvement of the Delaware River.

Removal of the piers, however, would make the projected freight cut-off to divert heavy traffic around Trenton, impossible, according to an opinion by J. M. Nicholson, assistant engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad. "The railroad company would suffer serious losses in view of expenditures already made," Nicholson said, "and the public served by the railroad would lose all the benefits of this projected line. In the event the company was required to remove these piers at the present time, the expenses involved would approximate $150,000." Earlier in the meeting, Kyle declared the cost of the piers—the middle one of which was removed in 1932—was $400,000.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 26.—(INS)—The 17-year locust will hop again this year in many states, but "it is doubtful if any of the brood will appear in New York State," says Prof. Robert Matheson of the New York State College of Agriculture. "In 1919, the last time they came, the only records were from a few points on Staten Island and from Islip and Farmingdale on Long Island. No specimens were recorded from western New York, though this brood was known to occur there in 1902."

PEIPING, Mar. 26.—(INS)—The China station has lost the reputation of having the American Navy's "best man" with it. Lt. J. C. Hollingsworth, who earned his title by being the best man at no less than eleven weddings since graduating from the Naval Academy, has been transferred from the U. S. S. Sacramento here to the New York Navy Yard.

SECOND PLAY-OFF GAME SCHEDULED HERE TONIGHT

The second game of the play-off series for the Bristol Amateur Basketball League championship will be played on the Italian Mutual Aid court tonight. The Moose Musketeers, with the first game under their belt, will play the Odd Fellows, first half, in the preliminary game, the third Ward Rangers play the All-Stars.

The Moose captured the first game of the series, Monday night, when they scored an easy win over the Odds, 42-26. The Odd Fellows could not find their scoring eyes in this tilt and have been practicing since that game and are determined to trim the Moose tonight and even the series.

Manager Nev McGinley will stick to his same starting line-up of Ernie Birchenough, Mintzie Manczak, Herbie Lawrence, Eddie Dugan and Joe Roe. Manager Hermann, in an effort to deadlock the series, will use Bobby Weideman, Frank Frankovic, Bobby Hughes, Danny Hines, and Paul Rimer.

The All-Stars will be composed of Ray Dorsey, Bill Hart, Lefty Kleinfelder, Johnny Dougherty and Punkie Zeffries. Third Ward has Tommy Morrissey, Lou Parker, Tommy Watts, Peter Bornice and Bud Taito. This tilt is expected to be close and interesting. First game will start at eight o'clock sharp.

Guilty of Murder

Media, Mar. 26—Roy Crittenden, an Ardmore negro, today was found guilty of murder in the first degree, with death in the electric chair as the penalty, for the cold-blooded slaying of Mrs. Mary L. Giber, 70-year-old housekeeper at Haverford College.

The verdict was returned by a jury of seven men and five women, to Judge W. Roger Fronsfield.

Crittenden admitted firing the shotgun which virtually blew Mrs. Giber's head from her body, as she was attending a reunion dinner with her family in the student waiter's dining room of Founder's Hall, last December 23rd.

A few days previous to the murder, Crittenden was discharged as an employee of the college kitchen for drunk.

ness, by Mrs. Giber, Crittenden testified he was "worried," and didn't know what he was doing.

A graphic account of the horrible crime was given by Mrs. Giber's family, including her son, Lieutenant Giber, connected with the Naval Ammunition Depot, at Fort Mifflin. The latter described the dinner party.

The diners were finishing their dessert when the negro entered the room, aimed the barrel of the shot-gun with-champs. In the preliminary game, the Third Ward Rangers play the All-Stars.

With her head virtually off, she slumped to the floor as the negro escaped. Less than an hour later the negro surrendered to police and confessed.

Flood Danger Believed Past

Pittsburgh, Mar. 26—Danger of the second disastrous flood in a week was believed past today, as threatening high water left the district virtually unscathed.

The waters that reached a crest of approximately 46 feet, several days ago crippling this flood-stricken district, reached a 30.6 foot stage at nine p. m. last night, remaining stationary for several hours, and then slowly receding.

Light showers today were not expected to avert the situation, according to weather officials.

Meanwhile, officials aiding in the rebuilding of this city, estimated there were 70 dead, 2,764 injured, 40,921 families homeless, 48 homes destroyed, and 23,124 badly damaged in Pennsylvania.

They predicted there will be more when the toll is calculated.

Fight "Food Racketeers"

Harrisburg, Mar. 26—Aiding in the battle to investigate attempts of "food racketeers" to sell contaminated food in the flood-stricken area of the state, a supplement force of food inspectors were put to work today by the Works Progress Administration.

Baking Co. Employees Strike

Philadelphia, Mar. 26—Picketing of the Freihofer Baking Company's plant began again today as striking employees, backed by the Philadelphia Joint Council of Labor Unions, continued their demand for higher wages. Representatives of 24 unions in the council promised financial and moral support to the strikers. Meanwhile, company officials charge sporadic instances of violence were due to pug-nugly tactics by strike sympathizers.

Dynamite Train Explodes

Mexico City, Mar. 26—A dynamite train exploded at Tutlenango, in the State of Mexico, today, killing 20 persons and injuring 60.

Many of the injured were not expected to live. The blast occurred at the Tutlenango railway station, which was demolished. The injured were rushed to hospitals in nearby Eloro.

The dynamite was being shipped to the Elora mines. The explosion apparently was caused by a fire, which was reported to have broken out in one of the dynamite cars.

A restaurant and warehouses were situated in the station.

Tutlenango is a village, a railroad junction about 50 miles northwest of Mexico City.

Flood in Kentucky

Louisville, Ky., Mar. 26—Raging at a level of 33.6 feet today, the Ohio River swept over the highway at West Point, a few miles from the city, halting traffic between here and Henderson and Owensboro, Kentucky, and forced closing of a second school in that district.

Delivering Samples of Wheat Krispies Now

Uniformed members of the Kellogg Sampling Crew are delivering in this area samples of Kellogg's Wheat Krispies, which are said to be a new experience in ready-to-eat cereals. These are the Krispies which are blended with rice and which will stay crisp in milk or cream.

Kellogg's Wheat Krispies have something that no other wheat cereal ever had, according to the manufacturer. Just enough rice is blended with whole wheat to give amazing new crunchiness and flavor.

At the Hunter place the thieves got away with jewelry, silverware and numerous household articles, which according to the list given to Bucks County Detective Russo total $1,000 in value.

Yesterday morning in breaking the window at the A. & P. store the thieves used a crowbar and used it with great effect. Not satisfied with the damage they had done they used a pick on the back door.

Residents in the vicinity heard a noise during the night or the early morning, but did not attribute any particular significance to it and so far as has been learned, no one saw the thieves in the vicinity of the place.

answered questions and kept the session moving briskly along.

Finished dishes brought applause and enthusiastic comments from her big audience, and little bursts of clapping throughout the discussion when Mrs. Crabtree so quickly and wisely demonstrated a new dish or answered the questions handed in on the slips.

There was more excitement and laughter in the audience as the session drew to a close, for the women knew that not only would the enticing dishes prepared by Mrs. Crabtree be given to some of them, but that other fortunate listeners would carry home filled market bags. And what bags!

The climax of the evening arrived with the awarding of these gifts, market bags filled with food-stuffs, as well as dishes that Mrs. Crabtree had prepared. There were given to fortunate "home executives" as the popular lecturer chooses to call the home-makers, a prune-apricot upside-down cake, a sweet potato pie, cheese sandwiches, and a tempting peach salad; also a 24-lb. bag of flour. Two of the grocery bags were awarded to wives of grocers.

The third session of the cooking school will occur this evening. The doors of the Bristol M. E. Church lecture room will open at seven o'clock, with the program starting at eight. Only those 18 years of age and over will be admitted. The hostess this evening will be Mrs. Joseph O. Canby, secretary of Langhorne Sorosis.

Flood Damaged 125 Homes At Yardley

According to Phillip J. Hickey, Federal Housing Administrator, who is in charge of this work along the Delaware, Yardley is the only community in which no disease has broken out. Two Red Cross nurses have been secured and will come to Yardley today for any work which might be needed.

In order to render assistance to families an office will be opened each day in the P. O. S. of A. building on Afton avenue, from 9 to 12 noon. This work is under the direction of Mrs. H. Linn Bassett, chairman of the Yardley Branch of the American Red Cross, assisted by a number of local workers.

Contributions of food, clothes, money, furniture, and any items of household use will be gladly received at the headquarters on Afton avenue, and such donations are to be used solely for the benefit of devastated families here.

Monetary contributions were received in each church in the community on Sunday and a report from John C. McCormick, who was in charge of the collection for the Methodist Church, showed a donation of $142.63 from that sect, while complete reports from the other churches have not been compiled.

Through the efforts of District Deputy Caleb Cope, of Morrisville, the American Legions in the various communities have delivered to Yardley a generous supply of clothing, furniture and food. Included in these donations were contributions from the Legions of Bristol, Fox Chase, Morrisville, Langhorne, Newtown, Lambertville,

Cooking School Recipes

Following are the recipes demonstrated at the Courier's cooking school last evening.

SWEET POTATO PIE

2 cups mashed sweet potato
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon melted shortening
2 cups milk, scalded
2 eggs

Blend mashed sweet potatoes with salt, sugar, nutmeg and shortening. Add hot milk and fold in eggs, well beaten. Transfer to a deep pan lined with pastry (see recipe below.) Bake in a hot oven 425 degrees F. for the first 10 minutes to set the undercrust. Then reduce the heat to moderate 350 degrees F. and continue cooking until the filling is delicately brown on top and firm in the center—about 30 minutes longer.

PLAIN PASTRY

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup shortening
Ice water

Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in the shortening with knives. Use just enough water to hold mixture together and roll out on a floured board.

FRENCH FRIED VEGETABLES

Dip whole boiled small carrots, flowers of cooked cauliflower, asparagus tips or uncooked rings of onion, eggplant or cucumber in batter and fry in deep fat. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve piping hot. A pleasant way to get variety with vegetables.

BATTER

2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Beat eggs, add milk and shortening. Add sifted dry ingredients. Beat well. Dip vegetables into batter. Fill saucepan or deep skillet two-thirds full of melted fat. Fat is the right heat 350 to 370 degrees F. or when a bread cube browns in 60 seconds.

PRUNE-APRICOT UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup granulated sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed cooked apricots cooked prunes, halved

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and sugar, and sift three times. Add shortening. Combine egg, milk and vanilla. Add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously one minute. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in 8x8x2 inch pan over low flame. Add brown sugar; cook and stir until thoroughly mixed. On this arrange apricots and prunes, alternately, cut-sides up. Turn batter out on contents of pan. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F. 50 minutes or until done. Loosen cake from sides of pan with spatula. Serve upside down on dish with fruit on top. Garnish with whipped cream.

FLAVORED PASTRY

This is made by cutting into the shortening and flour 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind. For another variation substitute for cold water in pastry, chilled unsweetened pineapple juice, taken from can. Fine with cream pies.

MINCE MEAT DROP COOKIES

1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup mince meat
1 1/4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening, sugar and egg together. Add mince meat, then flour and baking powder sifted together. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet and bake for ten minutes in a hot oven 400 degrees F. Makes 30 cookies.

2 tablespoons gelatine
1 1/4 cup water
1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
1/4 cup lemon juice
Mix meat, watercress, celery and seasonings; add gelatine to the cold water, let soften and dissolve over boiling water, then add to the mayonnaise and lemon juice. Combine with meat mixture and pour into molds that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce with a sprinkle of paprika on each.

RICE CUTLETS

2 cups cooked rice
1 cup cooked carrot pulp
1 tablespoon onion, minced
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg

1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup butter
Mix cooked rice, carrot pulp, minced onion, pepper, salt, egg and milk together. Form into even-sized balls and shape into cutlets. Roll in bread crumbs and let stand 5 minutes. Fry the cutlets in a little fat until a golden brown on both sides. Arrange on a hot platter and sprinkle with parsley. Serve with apple or current jelly.

TOMATO SHERBET

Stir together:
2 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup crushed pineapple

Freeze in refrigerator tray about 4 hours, stirring twice. Serve with meat course or with crackers and cheese for dessert.

HOT BAKED CHEESE SANDWICH

12 slices bread
3/4 lb. American cheese
3 eggs
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Trim the bread and toast it. Make a cream sauce of the last 5 ingredients, cool slightly, and add the beaten eggs. Lay half the toast in a shallow baking pan with half the cheese, sliced thin, on top. Pour over this the milk and egg mixture and cover with the remaining toast and cheese. Press the toast down into the egg mixture until the edges are submerged, but not the cheese. Set the pan in hot water and bake in a moderate oven 325 degrees F. until the cheese is melted and the egg mixture set. Makes six servings.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — That fad for fashioning dresses out of handkerchiefs must have started something else. Because now the Hollywood girls are whipping up garments out of such other odds and ends as bath towels and old curtains. Honest—I'm not kidding!

A few weeks ago I wrote about how the stars are saving handkerchiefs. Those big printed squares for evening dresses, and smaller ones for sport frocks. Bette Davis, Constance Bennett, Joan Blondell, Jean Muir and Josephine Hutchinson were but a few who have tried the trick. Evidently this trend put the "handkerchiefing" idea in other people's heads; for . . . Yesterday I went down on the "Florence Nightingale" set . . . and there was Spring Byington, well known character actress . . . waiting for her scene . . . in a lounging robe made out of bath towels. Not toweling that comes by the yard, mind you, but actual towels—six of them in a peach shade, with brown stripes, they formed a most attractive robe, cleverly hand-made by the actress herself, with the stripes so arranged as to trim the collar, run down the sleeve in an inverted pleat, and make the belt.

Then . . . as if that weren't astonishing enough . . . I went to a formal dinner party . . . and there Patricia Ellis, not only admitting, but boasting that her dress had been made out of a curtain! She'd been to Detroit . . .

swiped the material from a little cousin who had the same idea . . . and upon her return, had the dress made by a seamstress in Hollywood.

In case you're curious . . . the material was a bright coarse mesh in lots of giddy colors . . . posed over a form-fitting slip of sleek black satin. Black satin bound the edges of the neckline and flaring armholes . . . the skirt was floor length and slit up both sides . . . and the sash was black silk cord, with long black tassels. And yes, it was a smart outfit . . . that goes without saying, when Pat Ellis wore it.

Hankies . . . bath towels . . . curtain material. I don't know where this fad of making garments out of what you happen to have around the house is going to end. But there's a moral attached, without a doubt: In Hollywood, at least, it's smart to boondoggle!

By Betty Aldan

(I. N. S. Fashion Writer)

NEW YORK — (INS) — Your spring bonnet deserves a new coiffure to go with it! And on this subject, there are two schools of thought. There are those who maintain that sweeping your hair up and off your ears will sweep years from your face at the same time—and there are others who opine that a softer, longer hair-comb is by far the most flattering.

However, it seems to me that the middle ground is safest—and that while some women may benefit from the up-and-off treatment of their hair, there are others who need the soft frame of curls around their eyes and cheeks to give them glamour.

In any event, the first rule for your springtime coiffure should be to have it well-curl! Whether short or long, whether light or dark or even auburn, the hair that peeks from under the brims of the dashing sailors or bretons or cartwheels of the new season must be well-cared-for, well-groomed hair—and that means hair with lots of wave and curl to it.

For the new hats are more feminine than they have been for many years—they're loaded with veils and flowers and birds of brilliant plumage. And beneath such an assortment of ornamentation, the hair must be of similar femininity to be effective.

One of the most attractive of the new coiffures is the one introduced by Gladys Swarthout, who parts her dark hair in the middle and then wears it in double waves on each side. However, and this is the unusual thing about Miss Swarthout's coiffure—both of the two waves boast a row of fly-away curls that do grand things for her face.

Among the girls who like to sweep their hair off their ears is Joan Blondell, who recently had the top and sides of her hair cut quite short and curled in tiny ringlets all over the front part of her head.

Olivia DeHavilland is one of those fortunate girls who looks equally well with her hair long or short, on her ears or off them. So, she wears it in one fashion this week, then tries it another way for a change. But remember, we're not all Olivias—and the wise woman will experiment until she finds one new coiffure that does things for her—and she'll not try too many more.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

SALADS have a particular appeal at this season and many markets have several varieties of greens including iceberg and Boston lettuce, Romaine or cos lettuce, escarole, chicory or curly endive and watercress. Rhubarb too, never tastes better than in early spring and it is now quite generally in market. Meats, with the exception of pork and poultry, fish, eggs and butter are all as cheap or cheaper than last year at this time. Beets, cabbage, carrots, onions and spinach continue in the cheap class. Green and lima beans are somewhat higher. Asparagus prices are gradually getting down to a reasonable level.

Oranges are a particularly good value at present.

Here are three menus for Sunday dinner at different budget levels.

MANY VITAMINS YET TO BE DISCOVERED

By International News Service
PARIS, Mar. 25.—(INS).—There are many vitamins yet to be discovered, and the present conception of a perfect diet is by no means the final word in the matter.

This was the statement of Dr. Casimir Funk, American biochemist who in 1912 advanced the vitamin theory, when interviewed here concerning the recent findings of the Health Committee of the League of Nations on the eating habits of the world.

"I will say, however," he added, "that a report such as the one made by the League experts is something that I have been advocating for 25 years."

Dr. Funk is famous also for his theory that there are four different kinds of vitamins—"an anti-beriberi vitamin, an anti-scurvy vitamin, an anti-pellagra vitamin, and probably also an anti-rickets vitamin."

"Dr. Leslie Harris, the English scientist, in his new book, 'Vitamins in Theory and Practice,' credits Sir Frederick Hopkins and myself with being responsible for most modern nutritional ideas," continued Dr. Funk, "but I really claim that these are due chiefly to my not entirely to my propaganda of the vitamin theory and the experimental work done for many years which for a greater part justified that theory."

"I am not only a vitamin expert, but also an hormone expert," he said, "and I believe a more diversified diet is what is to be desired today—especially since it is certain there are some vitamins which remain to be discovered.

"The progress in the use of knowledge of vitamins is increasing very rapidly today. Most vitamins are not the mysterious substances they used to be, but are quite well-known, and some are even being produced artificially in laboratories."

Dr. Funk is now conducting several experiments both with hormones and vitamins at the laboratory, Casa Biologica, Rueil Malmaison, near Paris.

DOG'S TEETH FOR MONEY

OYLESTOWN COUNCIL DISCUSSES PARKING

Complain Because of Lack of Co-operation on Part of the Police

IS A SERIOUS MATTER

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 26.—Determining to break up the irregular parking on State street, which congests traffic going in either direction, President Harry Clayton, at an adjourned session of Doylestown Borough Council, declared that what is needed is more thorough patrolling by the police.

"There is no reason why an officer could not help motorists keep East and West State street in better condition. The street needs a little patrolling. It is up to the officers to see to it that the people use a little sense when they park their cars and let them as close to the curb as possible," said President Clayton.

Chairman Bartram H. Moore, speaking of traffic conditions, stated that one afternoon while standing at the south Main street and West Oakland avenue intersection seven motorists beat the red light. He emphasized the fact that it is not up to the State Highway Patrolmen to correct this, but the local police.

Failure to carry out fines, following arrest, was adjudged the reason for excess for many of the traffic rules in the County Seat.

Parking violations are still numerous, but Burgess Hotchkiss said after the meeting that there has been some improvement since he directed a drive against double-parking, careless parking and parking close to corners.

"It is difficult to understand the attitude of some motorists," said the Burgess. "They should be the first persons to recognize the unfairness of parking violations, just as they are the first to complain about the violations of others when it inconveniences them. We have repeated violations by motorists who park even across the sidewalks in the business sections."

with plenty of open spaces available nearby, or who park double, thereby jamming up traffic. The only way it can be stopped is by fines. Lately the police have been required to make an exceptional number of arrests of persons who are flagrant or persistent violators. Warnings simply do not have any effect with a certain type of motorist. I'm glad, Council, too, has come out strongly against these offenses, especially on State street. The attitude of some motorists does not invite leniency. A few days ago a motorist, who was notified to move his car off the walk-way at Main and Shewell, remarked that he would 'move the car when he got ready,' but fortunately not in the hearing of the officer. You could hardly call that co-operation."

CARDINALS ARE SAME GROUP, SAYS WRITER

Note: This is the third of a series of articles by Davis J. Walsh on the training activities of various major league ball clubs.

By Davis J. Walsh
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 26.—(INS)—There have been innuendoes bandied about the various handsomely appointed joints one encounters in the course of doing the Florida fruit juice circuit with a washrag and change of necktie. Each whisper dealing darkly with the teeth marks the St. Louis Cardinals are leaving daily upon each other's neck. It has gotten so, apparently, that the Cardinals hardly have time to train. They go into the dressing room absolutely determined that nothing shall distract their attention from having a robust fling with health and then the first bite begins. After that, of course, the situation gets beyond control, there being something about biting a neck that when not taken in time, rapidly becomes habit-forming and I tell you Manager Frisch is pretty upset about it. As a matter of fact, when I mentioned the matter today I thought for a minute that he was about to anoint me with the sign of the fraternal order of bicuspside. "Who said that?" The man was most indignant. "Why, that's an outrage. I've never seen such a camp. You tell them to be out at ten o'clock and they're out at nine-thirty. Tell a man to quit at two; then you look up and there he is at a quarter of three."

"I've been in seventeen training camps under McGraw, McKechnie, O'Farrell and Gabby Street, and this is the greatest camp for spirit I've ever seen. Anybody who says anything else ought to call in the coroner and give himself up."

The writer made no demonstration, for very obvious reasons. He had just come from gazing intently upon the Cardinals on the field and, if they aren't interested in playing ball, then the American stage wasted a lot of time on the Booths and the Barrymores. To every practical purpose, they are the same Cardinals who finished the 1934 World Series; not demonstrative or ostentatious but up there on their instincts.

The names are much the same—Colins at first, Frisch at second, Durocher at shortstop, Medwick in left field, etc., with a pitching staff largely made up of Deans. Although Frisch says that isn't so.

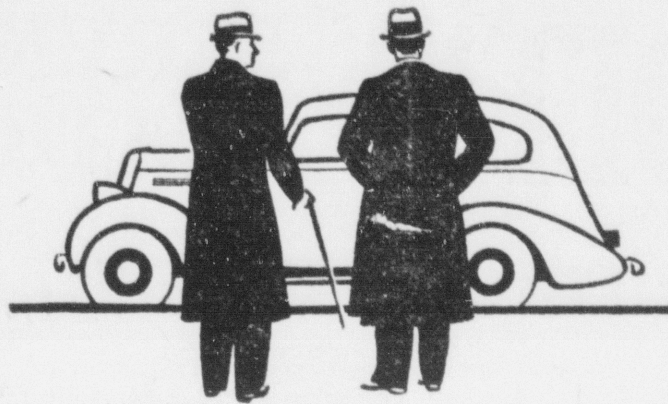

"The Deans won't have to win as many games as usual," says he. "I wish you could see Roy Parmelee when he's bearing down. Bill Hallahan will have one of his real years again. Ed Heusser is 100 per cent better and I'm very high on Bill McGee."

from Houston; Nelson Potter, from Houston, and Jim Winford, from Columbus."

KING'S GODCHILD

BELGRADE—(INS)—Young King Peter resumed his father's custom to be godfather of the ninth child of one of his subjects. Recently the ninth child was born to Antal Balanyi, a poor plumber of Hungarian nationality in the village of Petrovosele. The boy-king sent a colonel there, who was given a great reception by the whole village. The colonel brought a golden cross, a gold ducat and 5000 dinars, about $115, as the King's gift for his god-child.

What You Should Do WHEN FEET ITCH and BURN

When night comes and your feet itch and burn so they're almost killing you, do this—

Send to United Cut Rate Drug Store any good druggist and get a package of Radox—it's inexpensive—dissolve 3 tablespoonfuls in a gallon of hot water and soak your tender burning feet in this comforting bath for at least 15 minutes.

Soon the burning and soreness will be gone and tomorrow your feet will feel fine and strong again.

Do this for just 3 nights in succession and hard coarse skin around heels and toes and on soles of feet will peel right off and walking will again become a pleasure.—(Advertisement).

URGES WIVES TO DISAGREE WITH 'HUBBY' FREQUENTLY

By International News Service
BOSTON, Mar. 26—(INS)—Marry the "shy boys."

Disagree with your husband often enough to make conversation interesting.

The most popular men in college usually do not make the best husbands.

These were three of the precepts handed to Boston University girls by Mrs. Grace Locks Elliott, writer and psychologist.

"It takes more than a pretty face and physical charm to make a worthwhile relationship between men and women," she said. "The things to consider are: 'What can you talk about?' and 'What can you do together?'"

"Men and women do not have to be alike, but they must have mutual respect. Marriage does not mean possession. It means two individuals that are kept intact, but are drawn together by the increase of common interests."

"A married couple should disagree enough so that there is some fun in talking together. Otherwise there is nothing to do but say 'Yes.'"

Mrs. Elliott said she would judge the probable marital success of girls on their answers to the following questions:

"How would you spend $1,000 if you were suddenly given that amount with no strings attached?"

"If you could have one wish, what would it be?"

"What do you really do when you don't have to do what you do?"

Remarkable Baking Powder Has 64 Important New Uses

By Elizabeth Ann Baker

Part It Plays in Modern Home Cooking Makes All-Phosphate Type Leaveners Unequaled At Any Price

HOME cooks find that it is now possible to reduce cooking time, save sugar, produce smoother sauces and cream soups, lessen the strong flavor of certain vegetables such as cabbage and broccoli—all this by the simple addition of a pure all-phosphate baking powder.

Egg and cheese dishes are mightily improved both in texture and volume by this extra and very inexpensive ingredient.

Not "just any" baking powder can accomplish these results. It must be a baking powder that leaves no acid or bitter taste, of which type Rumford all-phosphate baking powder is the outstanding example. This type serves rather to enhance the natural flavor of the ingredients, and its only residue is pure food content.

In addition to its perfect two-tone leavening action Rumford is rich in health-building calcium and phosphates, vital elements in the human diet. For that reason, both expert and inexperienced cooks find Rumford a most competent help in providing healthful foods for the family meals.

Here are some of the popular dishes that you will find greatly improved when prepared with Rumford:

Liver Patties
1 lb. beef liver
1 teaspoon Rumford Baking Powder
1 cup bread-crumbs
Salt and pepper
Tomato puree

Method: Puree the liver into boiling water to which a little Rumford Baking Powder has been added, and set it at the back of the stove, or over a low flame, for about five minutes. This will take away some of the rather pronounced flavor of the beef liver and make it much more tender. Remove the liver from the water, cool, and cut off all the skin and tough portions. Put through the meat chopper. With the chopped meat mix a teaspoonful of Rumford, a cup of bread crumbs, salt and pepper, and enough tomato puree to hold the mixture together. Form into patties, dot generously with butter, and bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven.

Creamy Welsh Rarebit
1 tablespoon butter
1/4 cup cheese
2 eggs
1/2 cup cream
1/2 teaspoon Rumford Baking Powder
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
Dash of cayenne

Method: Melt butter. Add finely chopped cheese. Stir until well melted and blended. Stir in the well beaten eggs and pour in the cream. Add the baking powder mixed with the sugar and mustard. Add dash of cayenne to taste. Stir and cook in double boiler or over water until very smooth. Serve on toast. This rarebit will not string.

New and Easier Way Makes Better Home-Made Mayonnaise

Why do so many people prefer home-made mayonnaise? Well, here's one answer—when home-made mayonnaise is as good as the dressing you can make so easily by following this recipe, that's reason enough. There's one point about this recipe which is a matter of special interest, too—it will always turn out the very smoothest mayonnaise. The secret is in the use of the baking powder called for.

Yolks of 2 eggs
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 tablespoon vinegar (or lemon juice)
1/2 teaspoon Rumford Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon sugar
A dash of cayenne
Mix sugar and seasonings. Add egg yolks and beat. Add the olive oil drop by drop beating continually. Add the lemon juice (or vinegar) and baking powder.

I Made Up My Mind To Get Thin...and Did!

It took so simple! I ate what I liked, took no strenuous exercises, did not weaken my body with drastic purgatives—yet day by day I felt myself getting lighter, the fat seemed to slip away. Now I have a lovely, graceful figure—and I never felt better in my life!

That, in brief, is what thousands of women who have reduced the Marmola way might well tell you. Four times a day they take a little tablet containing in exactly the right quantity a world-famous corrective for abnormal obesity. A corrective prescribed by physicians everywhere and acknowledged to be the most effective known.

Since 1907, more than 20 million packages of Marmola have been purchased. Could any better recommendation be had?

Today—buy a package of Marmola, and start at once. Soon you will experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will bless the day you first discovered this marvelous reducing agent.

Marmola is on sale by dealers everywhere—from coast to coast. (Advertisement)

PERMIT TRAFFIC ON RIEGELSVILLE HIGHWAY

Route 611 Had Been Closed
After High Water of Last Week

REPAIRS TO BE MADE

RIEGELSVILLE, Mar. 26—Traffic on Route 611, leading from this place to Easton, has again been permitted after the highway was closed several days last week as the result of the ice freshet week before last and the high water again last week.

The concrete highway was opened this week upon the direction of Robert E. Neumeyer, district engineer of the State Highway Department, after employees of that department, assisted by WPA men, had cleared the mud and muck from the roadbed.

One-way traffic was the rule between Coffeetown and this place over the Rocky Falls stretch that had been so badly swept by the ice freshet and the following flood. Barrels were placed on the canal side, about 20 feet apart along this section. Flammen stood at either end, permitting strings of cars to go one direction at a time. At night red lanterns were placed on the barrels. Two additional watchmen were stationed midway on the dangerous stretch and the speed limit was set at 10 miles an hour.

Engineers of the State Highway Department assert that the foundation of the road is firm, although on the canal side it was washed out at places to a depth of 30 inches. That part of the highway was laid on top of the former old black road. The black road was built on what is called a Telford base, the stones being placed vertically by hand. The canal bank side of the road is washed out to such an extent that this Telford base is exposed, but it appears solid. Engineers say that passage of vehicles of all types over this stretch at a speed of 10 miles an hour, with one-way traffic in effect, will not harm the foundation and will not be unsafe if drivers obey the rules.

The canal wall of stone and concrete on the river side opposite a point near the southern end of the Rocky Falls section, was washed out for a distance of about 150 feet by the second flood, permitting the water to sweep into the main river channel.

Engineers say this break probably saved the concrete road from more serious damage, because the flood waters took a sudden turn there and swept into the river instead of continuing to beat against the road foundation. The road at Rocky Falls and the one from Seipsville to Nazareth are perhaps the only ones in this section of the county which have a Telford base.

The State Highway Department aims to start immediately upon repairing the shoulder on the canal side of the road. They say that about 5,400 tons of fill will be required to build the bank up. Then on a gradual grade, a rip rap bank, in which large stones are carefully laid side by side, will be built. The shoulder of the road will be five feet wide. The shoulder on the old road was but three feet wide.

Portrait On Canvas Likeness of Chief Pontiac

What was probably the only serious effort ever made to portray on canvas Chief Pontiac, the Ottawa Indian, has resulted in the splendid life sized oil painting which was presented to the Pontiac Motor Co. by the citizens of Pontiac during the dinner given at the Pontiac High School, Feb. 11, in honor of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation.

Completed just before the first of the year, it is the work of a well known New York artist, Jerry Farnsworth, who was selected after careful consideration as best fitted to do the job.

The presentation was made by Harold Fitzgerald, publisher of the Pontiac Daily Press and was accepted by H. J. Klingler, president of Pontiac Motor Co.

To the Pontiac Daily Press goes the credit for the idea of a permanent record in the form of an authentic portrait of the Chief as a token of the esteem in which the people of the city hold the motor company which bears its name.

A penny subscription campaign resulted in almost 90,000 pennies being collected.

The city of Pontiac and surrounding country are rich in the lore of the early American Indian. It was Chief Pontiac's base of operations and a small island in the center of Orchard Lake, five miles from the city, marks the secluded haven to which the great red man retired between his campaigns which covered the entire lower Great Lakes region during the middle of the eighteenth century.

It was a happy choice on the part of the founders of Pontiac Motor Co. to select this famous name and the Indian head motif which have been continued through the ten years that have elapsed.

After he received his commission to paint the Pontiac portrait, artist Farnsworth spent two weeks in intensive study of his subject before touching the canvas.

Every step in the execution of the work, as well as the completed painting, was submitted to the Museum of Natural History and the Museum of the American Indian in New York for their approval of its authenticity.

One of his most difficult jobs, the artist explained, was to make the work colorful and yet accurate, because the Ottawa tribe did not make much use of brilliant colors except in small details of the costume.

For his theme he chose Chief Pontiac's meeting with Robert Rogers in 1760. At that time the Chief was most inclined to be friendly with the white man. Robert Rogers had been dispatched to take possession of Detroit on behalf of the British. Pontiac objected to the further invasion of the territory, but learning that the French had been defeated in Canada, consented to the surrender to the British and was the means of preventing an attack on the latter by a body of Indians on the Detroit River.

The head dress shown in the painting is of moose skin with three black and white feathers and was taken directly from a head dress at the Museum of the American Indian. In no circumstance was the artist permitted to use feathers or head dress in any other colors. The breech cloth, also, was taken from the object itself and is fortunately colorful and authentic. The tomahawk is very unusual in design and is typical of the Ottawa tribe.

Jerry Farnsworth is one of the outstanding portrait artists in the country. Invariably his work has character and distinction. His career has been interesting and he has received many valued awards for his canvases.

He was born in Dalton, Georgia, and was a pupil of Charles W. Hawthorne. Prizes he has won include awards from the Washington Society of Artists, 1924; the Hallgarten prize of the National Academy in 1925 and again in 1927; the Golden State prize of the Grand Central Art Galleries in 1928; the Thomas Clarke prize of the National Academy in 1933 and the Proctor Portrait prize of the National Academy in 1934.

The National Academy elected him an associate academician in 1933 and again in 1935.

Works of artist Farnsworth are displayed in Delgado Museum, New Orleans; Pennsylvania Academy, Philadelphia; Vanderpool Museum, Chicago, and Houston Museum, Houston, Texas. He has painted portraits of Mrs. Roosevelt, Sr.; Herr Hitler; Haile Selassie and Bishop Perry, of Rhode Island for "Time" magazine and many distinguished business leaders and educators for "Fortune" magazine, as well as portraits for private collections and museums.

Mr. Farnsworth's summer home is on Cape Cod, Mass., and his winter home is in New York.

SPURNS AUTO FOR BIKE

CONCORD, N. H. — (INS) — Since his graduation from Dartmouth College in 1896, George Henry Davis, 61, this city, has scorned the prevailing methods of transportation and has conducted all his social and business trips on a bicycle. For the past forty years Davis, an electrician, has been using a bicycle of ancient vintage which he purchased while still an undergraduate at Dartmouth.

NOT SO FUNNY

WALLA WALLA, Wash. — (INS) —

Melvin Weitz now wishes someone would do a bit of erasing in his favor. Weitz followed a policeman down a local street, erasing chalk-marks which the policeman placed on automobile tires as a check against possible overtime parking. Weitz thought the situation was very funny. Then a second policeman began following Weitz. Weitz didn't think his arrest was very funny.

SIX KNOCKOUTS FEATURE BOXING SHOW HELD IN CROYDON ARENA; FOUR OF THEM GO THE LIMIT

By T. M. Juno

CROYDON, Mar. 26.—Six knockouts featured the amateur boxing show held in the Croydon Arena, State Road and Cedar avenue, last night. Four of the bouts went the limit and the fans were treated to a fine assortment of hooks and jabs in the ten bouts. The affair was sponsored by the Daggart Boxing Club under the supervision of the Middle Atlantic district of the A. A. U.

Two fighters representing the Bucks County Rescue Squad were credited with victories. Charlie Daggart's team captured three out of four with Nativity breaking even with two and two. Neighborhood A. C. won a bout and lost a bout while Kensington fared poorly with one victory and five losses.

The thrill of the evening was provided by "Jimmy" Devlin, Daggart. Devlin was socked stingingly by Bill Mastrangelo, 1935 champion of the 135-lb. class, in the first round being contented to merely use his jab as a defensive weapon. But from the second round on it was Devlin all the way. He began to put power into that jab of his and twice sneaked over hard rights. The first staggered Mastrangelo and the second made him take the count before the gong sounded for the second round. Devlin continued to paste his opponent in the final session and won the battle.

Joe Meyers, Rescue Squad and James Donnelly, Nativity, fought toe to toe most of their fight but the Croydonite had a reach which kept away the Philadelphian and allowed the localite to get the nod in the entire three rounds to win easily. Meyers missed several haymakers in the affair which would have caught Donnelly off balance.

Lenny Dever, Bristol, received a tough break in his contest with William Leighton of the Rescue Squad. Dever was rocked in the jaw with a right and went down. At the count of four, he arose but Referee Harpt thought that the Bristolian was out on his feet and it was only the reaction which made him get up so quickly that he stopped the fight, awarding it to Leighton on a technical knockout. Dever was floored in the first round also but before the close of the canto had staggered Leighton with a short right.

Beating Albert Hall, Kensington, at his own game in the final round gave Joseph Cook, Daggart, the victory over the Kensington boy. Hall had overcome the first round lead by Cook by his winding uppercuts in the second round but Cook performed the uppercutting in the final session and caught Hall off-guard many times. Hall was down for a short count in the first.

Two rights and a left to the head were too much for Albert Paucelli, Neighborhood, who was counted out in the second round of his tilt with Charlie Sullick, Kensington. Sullick hit too hard for the Neighborhood boy.

Russell Whitney, Nativity, had the better of Joseph McCaffery, Kensington, in a slugfest match and in the second shot over a right which ended the fight then and there.

The most clever fighter of the night was Benny Belinski, fighting unattached. Belinski was hit very much in his fight with James Fahey and easily socked the Nativity youth into submission, finally finishing the job in the third round when he sent the lower to the canvas twice. Arm weary from striking too many blows made the winner hang to the ropes while Fahey was being counted out.

Francis McClay and Carl Schmied battered each other unmercifully in their go with McClay winning the first round and Schmied the next two and the decision. McClay was jarred in the final session and for the moment the fans thought he was going to hit the canvas but he pulled through to stay the limit.

A one-two, followed by two hard rights to the stomach, was more than could be borne by Walter Rose, Daggart, as he was finished in the second round by Tom Kavalianskas, Neighborhood. The attack first floored Rose who got up at nine only to go down again for the full count.

Joseph Chiplick, Daggart, won the heavyweight bout of the night, when he used his long reach to a good advantage to score a technical knockout over Mike Makoski, Kensington, in the third round. Makoski made the mistake of trying to mix it up with the ultimate winner.

It was announced that the Joe Dad-dah-Jack Carter return match would be fought next week. Officials of last night's bouts were: Referee, Walter Harpt; timer, John Fitzpatrick; judges, Nathan Lipshultz and Ford Lilly; inspector, Joe Brown.

JOIE ZETTLER TO MAKE DEBUT IN ARENA HERE

Joie Zettler, past-stepping Jewish battler from Washington Crossing, will make his debut to the local fight fans Monday night as he dons the Purple and Gold tights to fight Willie Baines, Mason A. C., in one of the ten bouts scheduled for the boxing show to be conducted by the St. Ann's Athletic Association in the Italian Mutual Aid arena.

Zettler has had several bouts under the St. Ann's colors and was very impressive. At the St. Martin's Catholic Church bouts, Zettler was matched with Ralph Mazzone, Mason, who is considered one of the best in Philadelphia. For two rounds, Mazzone battered Zettler with everything he had but the Washington Crossing youth would not give up and then astonished the fans by an amazing finish which had the fans cheering wildly for the underdog. Zettler floored Mazzone twice in this session but could not overcome the large lead of the Philadelphia.

Matchmaker Patsey Moffo has also secured a bout for the debut of Phil Quici who weighs in the vicinity of 150 pounds. Quici is matched with Salvatore Cirilli, Mason. Cirilli has quite a long list of victories under his belt and will be a test for the localite. If Quici can succeed in bowling over the Mason warrior he will be rated high by the managers of the A. A. U. fighters.

Five bouts are now completed on the St. Ann's card. The others will be signed completely tonight. Fighters are named for the Bristol youths, nine in all, but they have not as yet been sanctioned by the A. A. U.

Reserved seats can be purchased by calling the St. Ann's Athletic Association, 9934.

GINO GARIBALDI IS VICTOR ON THE MAT

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 26.—Cracking his opponent under the chin with his hooked hands when he apparently could not stand on his right leg, Gino Garibaldi, leading Italian grappler, won the third and deciding fall over Ivan Managoff, Russian wrestler, last night at the Arena before 1,800 fans. The last fall lasted just 51 seconds. Garibaldi had won the first fall in 1:12, using a vigorous clout to the jaw and a body press to gain the decision. Managoff came back strong and finally pinned the Italian in 22:47 after he had wrenched his right leg for more than half of that time. Garibaldi weighed 220, Managoff 221.

In the semi-windup, Al Bisignano, 215, of California, and Hank Barber, 218, former Dartmouth athlete, wrestled to an interesting 30-minute draw. Previously, Serge Kalmikoff, 225, bearded Russian giant, gained a fall over Scotty McDougall, 224, of Scotland, in 11:53, and John Katan, 218, of Canada, pinned Rusty Westcott, 222, of Honolulu, in 21:23. In the opener, Dr. Len Hall, 218, of Nebraska, subdued Tony Colosano, 205, of New York, in 10:51.
